

Inauguration of well-equipped modern video conference hall at Secretariat Government has started the work of digitization in all administrative sectors at a fast pace: Chief Minister

The video conference hall of the State Secretariat is well equipped and modernized. The newly renovated video conference hall is equipped with modern technology. Last evening, Chief Minister Prof. (Dr.) Manik Saha inaugurated this modern and well-equipped video conference hall. After the inauguration, the Chief Minister held the first meeting on e-office with the District Magistrates of all the districts of the state through video conference in this video conference hall. Chief Secretary J.K Sinha, Principal Secretary of Information and Technology Department Puneet Agarwal, Secretary of PWD Department Abhishek Singh and others were present on the occasion. While addressing the meeting, the Chief Minister said that the Prime Minister of the country, Narendra Modi, has called for the creation of Digital India. For this purpose he emphasized on the use of modern technology. Responding to the call of the Prime Minister, the state government has started the work of digitization in every administrative sector of the government.

The Chief Minister then directed the District Magistrates to start e-offices at the district, sub-divisional and block level as soon as possible. It is gratifying that the process of e-office implementation in various district offices, sub-divisional administration offices and BDO offices has started within a very short period of time. Speaking on the occasion, Chief Secretary J.K Sinha said that the state government is doing well in providing digital services. The state government has laid emphasis on the introduction of digitization system in every sector to establish good governance in the state. As a result, the people of the state are getting the opportunity to receive services quickly.
